DOMESTIC VIOLENCE INTERVENTION: BACK TO BASICS/BEST PRACTICES

In Columbus as well as in other parts of Ohio, practitioners in the field of domestic violence education and prevention have benefited for many years from a variety of agencies and organizations providing help to victims. Several of these organizations have undergone changes recently to expand and improve services and in some cases have collaborated together to coordinate service delivery. Please join us as we explore these changes and best practices with experts in the field.

TOPIC DESCRIPTIONS

“Overview of The Center for Family Safety and Healing and the Unprecedented Bystander Public Education Campaign” Karen S. Days, MBA

The Center for Family Safety and Healing fully addresses all aspects of family violence, including child abuse and neglect, teen dating abuse, domestic violence, and elder abuse. Our multidisciplinary team approach includes a one-stop, coordinated response to family violence for individuals and families through partnerships with law enforcement, child protective services, prosecution, and a wide range of community resources along with an expanded forum for education, advocacy, and ongoing research. On January 8, 2015, The Center for Family Safety and Healing announced a first-of-its-kind, public education campaign to raise awareness about family violence and increase bystander reporting.

“The Danger Assessment Program: Preventing Intimate Partner Homicides.” Gina Patterson, Psy.D. and Steven Glick, CLEE

This talk will describe the process of collaboration between law enforcement and victim services in implementing a program to identify intimate partner violence relationships that are at-risk for homicide or attempted homicide and to prevent intimate partner homicides using Dr. Campbell’s Danger Assessment, lethality assessment instrument.

“Domestic Violence Sheltering in Central Ohio in 2015: How far we’ve come.” Nina Lewis, MSW, LISW-S

To best understand where we are in domestic violence sheltering services in Franklin County now and where we plan to go, it’s helpful to have a better understanding of where we started. Are the ‘Basics’ the same now as they were in 1977? What about ‘Best Practices’? What’s different and what did the civil rights and anti-war movements have to do with domestic violence shelters? Facility, program, staff, and volunteers – it’s all the same, right? Or is it?

“Helping Survivors Heal: Understanding Trauma-Informed Care.” Rachel Ramirez, MA, MSW, LISW-S

The Center for Mental Health Services National Center For Trauma-Informed Care (NCTIC) cites that a trauma-informed approach is based on the recognition that many behaviors and responses expressed by survivors are directly related to traumatic experiences. Come learn about what a trauma-informed approach is and how to integrate this into your organization to promote healing and recovery for all victims of violence.
