

Teens and Technology: Dating in a Digital World

Free workshop for parents, caregivers and professionals who work with teens

Saturday, January 16
10 a.m.–noon

Hosted online via Zoom by The Center for Family Safety and Healing

Register in advance at: <https://bit.ly/TeensTechJan2021>.

Technology plays an important role in teen dating relationships. Yet, one in four teens is abused or harassed by a partner through technology. In this virtual session, attendees will learn about popular social media apps and websites frequented by teens, as well as how these resources can be used for power and control in relationships.

Attendees will be provided with resources to set age-appropriate boundaries for technology use, as well as to empower teens to use technology as a tool for prevention.

