

Welcome to the Child Assessment Center

You are going to the Child Assessment Center at
The Center for Family Safety and Healing.

You will park in our parking lot behind our building.

You can bring your favorite blanket or stuffed animal.

You will enter the Child Assessment Center and check-in with our team.

They will put a bracelet around your wrist.

They will take you to a private room for you and your caregiver.

A nurse will meet with you.

The nurse will get your height and weight.

They will listen to your heart and lungs.

They may ask you to use the potty if you can.

They will take you back to the room with your caregiver and you can color.

A social worker will come and take your caregiver to another room to talk.

One of our team members may sit with you and keep you company while you play.

When the social worker is done talking with your caregiver, it is your turn!

The social worker will take you to a room to talk by yourself.

The room has comfortable places for you to sit.

This room is a safe place, and you are in charge of what happens here.

The social worker will get to know you and ask you questions.

You can color while you talk. You can also ask questions.

When you are done talking, the social worker will take you back to your caregiver.

You and your caregiver will then meet with a doctor for a check-up.

The doctor will tell you everything they are going to do before they check your body.

This is a safe place, and you are in charge of your body.

You get to decide what parts of your body the doctor can look at during your check-up.

They will check your eyes, ears, mouth and your private parts.

When you are all done with your check-up, your caregiver will talk to the social worker and you can play.

Depending on the reason for your visit, your caregiver may be asked to talk to either a police officer or someone from child protective services before you leave.

You are all done with your visit today.
